"It's a message to all children in the world that they should stand up for their rights, they should not wait for someone else"

Malala Yousafzai - 2014 Nobel Peace Prize Speech

Last week 17-year-old Malala Yousafzai became the youngest-ever Nobel Peace Prize laureate. Since nearly being killed in 2012 aboard a school bus in Pakistani, Yousafzai has been a relentless human rights advocate for education and for women. The 2014 Nobel Peace Prize was awarded jointly to Kailash Satyarthi and Malala Yousafzai "for their struggle against the suppression of children and young people and for the right of all children to education".In her Nobel Peace Prize speech Yousafzai expresses her gratitude for the award and for sharing it with Kailash Satyarthi, a Hindu from India, who is fighting for the similar causes. She fearlessly urges children around the globe to stand up for their right to education and against slavery and human trafficking. It's an inspiring 11-minute speech.

I Am Malala: The Girl Who Stood Up for Education and Was Shot by the Taliban

When the Taliban took control of the Swat Valley in Pakistan, one girl spoke out. Malala Yousafzai refused to be silenced and fought for her right to an education.

On Tuesday, October 9, 2012, when she was fifteen, she almost paid the ultimate price. She was shot in the head at point-blank range while riding the bus home from school, and few expected her to survive.

Instead, Malala's miraculous recovery has taken her on an extraordinary journey from a remote valley in northern Pakistan to the halls of the United Nations in New York. At sixteen, she has become a global symbol of peaceful protest and the youngest nominee ever for the Nobel Peace Prize.

I AM MALALA is the remarkable tale of a family uprooted by global terrorism, of the fight for girls' education, of a father who, himself a school owner, championed and encouraged his daughter to write and attend school, and of brave parents who have a fierce love for their daughter in a society that prizes sons.

I AM MALALA will make you believe in the power of one person's voice to inspire change in the world.
